I am	I'm trying to	But	Because	Which makes me feel a policymaker, business strategist, or economist.	analyze and track global inflation trends in an interactive and data-driven manner.	inflation rates vary significantly across different regions, making it difficult to draw meaningful insights for forecasting and decision-making.	traditional methods lack real-time visualizations and consolidated data analysis.	frustrated when trying to identify key inflation drivers and develop effective economic policies.